To whoever this concerns,

I hope you are having a pleasant day.

Im writing in regards to the proposed Preston Market precinct. Cutting to the chase, I believe Preston Market is a valuable community hub for all age demographics, from senior migrants to young families with teenage hipsters. The market has always been a place of fond memories for me and my family and is a place I hold dear.

It's wide range of food vendors, cafes and other small business define the term community. It's rustic and "daggy" charm is a familiarity I believe will be truly missed with the proposed plans.

A high rise apartment block will not only make it feel enclosed, threatening and unwelcoming, it will take away the stalls that create jobs for many people at the market, who I'm also sure will be missed by their customers. There are already plenty of apartment blocks and townhouses being built in the area, and the reason many are flocking here is because of the community spirit and selection of fun things to do! I'm almost certain, that people will always be excited to live near something like Preston Market.

Taking it away, or tainting it's original form will create an unsatisfactory taste in the Northern Suburbs. Preston Market is the place where anyway can come, in trackies or in jeans for a jam donut, a slice of pizza and some beautiful fresh produce.

Support small businesses and the community, not gentrification.

Thank you,
