As a regular user of the northern highway as well as the football oval I find the idea of building a quarry on a hill just south of an expanding town to be a ludicrous idea. What vested interests do the members of the independent panel have?

At peak times the northern highway is already dangerous, adding significant truck traffic to an already inadequate road is a recipe for disaster. How on earth will the trucks exit the quarry to travel south? Please don't suggest traffic lights are a good idea.

Please just put this idea to bed.

I confirm that I have read and agree to the above conditions for making a submission.

Yes

I agree to the Collection Notice

Yes
